Gemina The Crooked-Neck Giraffe

Written by Karen B. Winnick

Illustrated by Karen B. Winnick

Gemina stood out from the other giraffes at the Santa Barbara Zoo. She was the famous crooked-neck giraffe. Everyone who saw her wondered if she was all right? Did her neck hurt? As months passed, Gemina's neck leaned more and more to the side but it never seemed to bother her.

Gemina didn't let her difference stop her from doing anything the other giraffes did. Told with affection and illustrated with oil paintings, this is Gemina's story, a celebration of the life of a very special giraffe. ALL proceeds from the sales of this book were generously donated by the author and go directly to support the animals at the Santa Barbara Zoo.

"This is a LOVELY book that especially touched my heart! My sweet baby boy (2 yrs) has severe scoliosis. It never stops him! He can fall a hundred times a day and bounce right back! The story of this giraffe is so like him! We were amazed there was a little boy like my son in the book with scoliosis and a brace."

How Lucky Got His Shoe

Written by Karen B. Winnick

When a Humboldt penguin was born at the Santa Barbara Zoo, zookeepers saw that the baby was having difficulty walking. They worried his foot was not growing properly. Teva, a local shoe company, was asked to make him a shoe. If a big elephant with a foot problem could wear one, so could a small penguin. This is the true story, told with affection and illustrated with oil paintings, of how Lucky got his shoe, his name and his ability to walk and swim like all the other penguins.

"I was inspired to tell Lucky's story because he does everything all the other penguins do, despite his disability," Winnick said. "With his determination, wonderful caregivers, and his shoe, Lucky is truly a lucky penguin. I hope children everywhere will be inspired by his story, too."
